The DFA provides planning, finance and other ministries, with data and analysis on the changing trends in development finance. It also provides a set of recommendations for how institutions and systems might be adjusted to ensure that different sources of development finance might be managed within a coherent framework, which better supports the achievement of national priorities and results including the SDGs. UNDP is already supporting a number of countries to implement the flagship DFA methodology in the Asia-Pacific, African and Latin American regions.

In response to the demand from countries, the Knowledge Exchange Symposium will explore how the DFA can identify opportunities and gaps towards establishing INFFs and showcase lessons from DFAs completed and underway. The discussion will feed into the HLM2 emphasis on country-level experiences of linking financing with results and institutional reforms and South-South learning opportunities.

This event will bring together government officials, development finance experts and UNDP staff from country and regional offices to identify lessons learned and next steps from country-level experiences with the DFA. Participants will gain a practical understanding of how governments can commission a DFA and what value its process, findings, recommendations and follow-up actions can bring to the efforts to link finance with results at country level.

Objectives of the session include:	Outputs of the session include:
