Global Partnership for Effective Development Co-operation

GLOBAL PARTNERSHIP: TRANSFORMING THE WAY WE WORK TOGETHER

With only halfway to go till we reach the 2030 deadline and with overlapping challenges and crises, we must strengthen political momentum for and champion development co-operation that is country-owned, focused on results, inclusive, and transparent and mutually accountable – the four principles of development effectiveness. By bringing diverse development actors together on the basis of a principle-led approach, the Global Partnership fosters trust and policy action in countries. It provides new and relevant evidence that empowers country-level actors to understand and tackle challenges towards better development co-operation.

WHY PARTNER COUNTRIES?

Partner countries around the world play a crucial role in building effective development co-operation partnerships.

Multi-stakeholder processes and partnerships led by governments and including all relevant actors such as local governments, civil society, private sector, and development partners, are essential in this quest.

This requires sustained leadership and active participation in the GPEDC, including the Summit, to ensure that the agenda being set is aligned to their most pressing priorities.

HOW? PARTNER COUNTRIES AS EFFECTIVE PARTNERS

- Promote and lead national development processes, building space for inclusive engagement with various stakeholders including national and local actors as well as new actors such as youth.
- Build frameworks to ensure their resources are channelled in manners which are aligned with national processes and priorities.
- Unlock internal and external resources, strengthen resilience, and make best use of all co-operation modalities, including South-South Co-operation and Triangular Co-operation, as well as financing flows.
- Strengthen and prioritize country systems to inform better policy making and increase transparency of where development co-operation is going.
