Global Partnership

WHY EFFECTIVE DEVELOPMENT CO-OPERATION?

Realising the 2030 Agenda means mobilising more resources, using them more effectively and bringing in more partners. Using resources effectively means that all development actors – public and private, domestic and international, executive and non-executive – make contributions based on their comparative advantage, and play unique and complementary roles in the development planning and implementation process.

Learn more about how different stakeholders engage in effective development co-operation.

An inclusively-designed Knowledge-Sharing Platform is actively being built.

Focus: the “how” of development co-operation.

Focus: challenge areas co-developed by Working Groups 1 and 3.

Community-driven: resources sourced and shared directly by members.

Demand-driven: substantive groups and thematic discussions.

Ability to connect with EDC practitioners with likeminded interests, working in similar contexts or with relevant expertise.

Stakeholder and context-specific resources for engaging in EDC.

Foundation of a global community of practice

Global Partnership

An inclusively-designed Knowledge-Sharing Platform is actively being built.

Strengthening coordination and dialogue structures

Collecting, managing and using development co-operation data

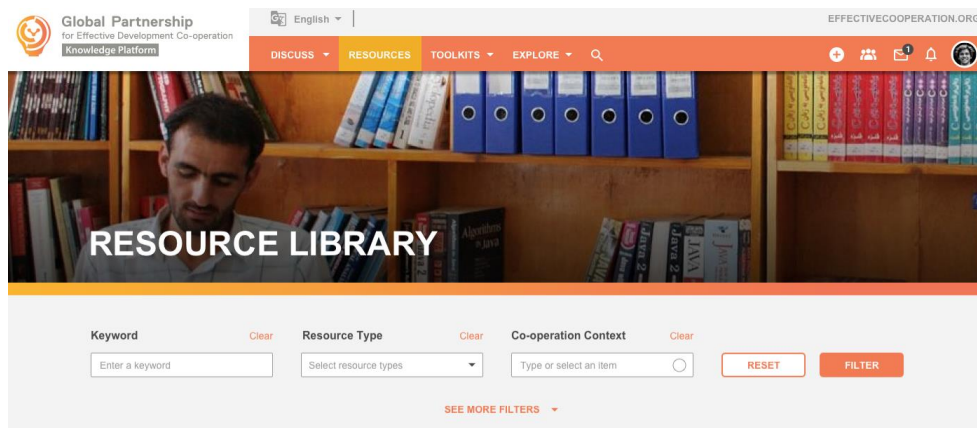

Building the capacity of various stakeholders

Engaging civil society, local governments and the private sector

Understanding and mapping diverse financial flows

✓ Robust knowledge library (resources, events, trainings)

✓ Global consultation forum

✓ Constituency-specific toolkits

✓ Group co-working / consultation spaces

Soft launch in February, public launch at SLM (TBC)
